

Week 2

What's the funniest or most random photo in your camera roll right now?

Why do you think it feels easier to show the "highlight reel" than the real story?

What's one area of your life that's easy to hide or keep people from seeing?

Jesus says the Holy Spirit helps us "testify."

Why do you think God wants us to share real parts of our story instead of only the perfect ones?

Have you ever heard someone share something honest and thought, "I needed to hear that"?
What made it meaningful?

Who is one person in your life you feel safe being honest with – and what makes them feel safe?

What could a simple "Before / God / Now" story look like for you, even if you don't want to share it out loud today?

Where do you need boldness or courage to be honest this week?
