

What is your definition of generosity?

Jimmy mentions choosing to produce kindness instead of just consuming content. What could that look like in your daily life?

What role does influence play according to Jimmy's story? How can someone have influence without being famous?

Time is a limited resource. How does Jimmy's use of his time (going to talk to strangers, giving time, attention) challenge you to think differently about how you use your free time?

Read 2 Corinthians 9:6-10

Think about a moment where you were surprised by someone's generosity (either you gave or you received). How did it make you feel? What did you learn from it?

What obstacles or fears might stop you from acting generously (time, money, reputation, etc.)? How could you overcome one of those this week?

Reflecting on your upcoming year (school, social, family), how could you allocate your time differently to include more influence for good? What's one concrete change you can commit to?
